NIIT and Adobe offers new curriculum

> This will help those students who are aspiring to be world class multimedia professionals

NIIT together with Adobe, announced the launch of first ever state-of-art NIIT e-GURU Web & Multimedia curriculum for school children, based on Adobe Creative Suite of Products.

The newly launched curriculum will cover the Adobe Creative Suite Master Collection, which will include Photoshop, Illustrator, Flash, Premiere, Encore, Soundbooth, AfterEffects, Fireworks, Dreamweaver.

Such a curriculum will give students aspiring for a career in domains like website designing, video editing and sound editing an early access to professional creative tools.

NIIT e-GURU comprises of 'Interactive Classrooms' for teachers, 'Math lab' and 'IT Wizard' for students, and 'Quick School' an Education Resource Planning solution for school management. It also provides a holistic education package to the schools, thereby addressing the needs of students, teachers, school management and parents.

According to L Balasubramanian, President, School Learning Solutions, NIIT, "The NIIT e-GURU Web & Multimedia curriculum for school children, based on Adobe Creative Suite of Products, will offer a perfect blend of multimedia applications, web technology, communication technology and also soft skills for the students who are aspiring to be world class multimedia professionals".

With the advent of web 2.0 technologies the future of video-citizens are on rise making it necessary to acquire skills in multimedia and web 2.0 technologies. The new curriculum offered by NIIT would be the first multimedia and life-skills module offered to school students. The course curriculum and content is designed as per international standards.

"With state of the art and standards-aligned curriculum, teachers and students new to Adobe software can quickly learn these tools used by industry professionals. In addition, features in Adobe Creative Suite would bring greater levels of productivity and fun to classrooms," added Sandeep Mehrotra, Director-Sales at Adobe India.