Google, NIIT launch training prog

Google on Friday launched a programme named Google Web Academy in alliance with NIIT, Asia's largest information technology trainer and a global talent development corporation. This would be a comprehensive training programme for young professionals in India, with an aim to bridge the digital skill gap and help students and professionals capitalise on the emerging job market for the online industry.

BS REPORTER•